MOVIE REVIEW:
THE PATH - BEYOND THE PHYSICAL

The filmmakers of The Path: Afterlife have now released the second DVD in the trilogy, entitled The Path: Beyond the Physical.

The Path: Beyond the Physical is a mysterious and captivating documentary exploring the out-of-body phenomenon, the once classified military investigation of remote viewing and the history of Robert Monroe's hemi-sync® labs.

This documentary investigates and reports on the theory that there is no separation between the physical of which we can see, hear and touch, and the non-physical.

The premier of the movie was held at TMI and is available for purchase from the TMI bookstore. We have permission to show it at the programs & workshops as long as it is used for educational purposes and we do not charge for the viewing.

"I have just watched the movie and enjoyed it thoroughly. I have met all the presenters other than Tom Campbell and to see them all talking about the subject that they are all passionate about was inspiring. For Residential Facilitators, Outreach Facilitators and Chapter Leaders this is a wonderful tool for all to use at your meetings, workshops and programs".

“I enjoyed watching The Path: Beyond the Physical.

It was focused on TMI with Skip Atwater, Paul Rademacher, William Buhlman and Tom Campbell all talking about what being ‘more than you physical body’ really means. A great introduction to what is offered at The Monroe Institute. I particularly enjoyed listening to Tom Campbell – he makes everything so SIMPLE. If you want to achieve something – just do it! They talk about OBEs, remote viewing and travelling to multiple dimensions and how Hemi-Sync® can enhance your explorations”.
